

The image shows the front cover of a book. The cover is a deep green color with a fine, pebbled texture. A decorative border in gold-tooled lines frames the cover. This border consists of multiple parallel lines, with small square motifs at the corners and midpoints of the sides. In the center of the cover, there is a small, dark rectangular label with a thin gold border. The word "Journal" is printed on this label in a classic, serif typeface, with the 'J' being significantly larger than the other letters.

Journal

1. Introduction

2. Methodology

3. Results

4. Discussion

5. Conclusion

6. References

7. Appendix

8. Acknowledgements

Welcome to Ainia's Public Library and D'ni Museum!

August 2012

Shorah fellow explorer!

This library and museum were constructed in order to house the constantly growing collection of books, journals and artifacts surrounding the ancient D'ni culture as well as all the research being done in that regard.

This Relto is here for your use, education and enjoyment. Please feel free to explore the different exhibits.

* * * *

Some notes about the exhibits:

- Many are not yet fully outfitted and so are not yet accessible. But enjoy looking at them from a distance!
- The Kemo breeding program is going very well! You can see that we already have several young specimens in the pond. At some future date, I am hoping to set up an adoption program so others can participate and ensure the survival of these rare and beautiful animals.
- The Pahrahbah bone excavated from Eder Gira is not climb-able, so please don't try!

- The Eder Gira Fossil #2 remains have been reconstructed so you can see them as they were excavated originally in the Age.
- All written materials can be found in the hut; there is a growing international section! Check back frequently for new additions.
- In spite of its small size, the D'ni Music research book is quite heavy! You will need to be patient when reading it, as it will take time to get it open.
- Several Bahro linking stones have been "borrowed" and repurposed for displaying videos (and so far, the Bahro don't seem to have minded). Since their technology is a bit unknown to me, the videos may run slowly or unevenly—if so, please be patient!

- If you know of records or artifacts that should be included here, please let me know!

* * * *

Enjoy your visit and come back soon!

Ainia

April 2013

The outdoor museum and zoological/
botanical collections have been fully installed.
We now have a nice variety of D'ni artifacts,
Age specimens, and even a small petting zoo.

All outdoor areas are now fully explorable, so please take your time and enjoy the new sights!

The hut library is continuing to grow. We now have a number of volumes in the international section.

And don't forget to check the imager for a list of ongoing projects, all of which will be a part of the library and museum when they are completed. Those that are continuous research projects will already be available in the library.

Enjoy!

Ainia

December 2013

The mysterious seed which arrived unannounced last month has suddenly activated! At this time, interacting with it results in a one-way trip, so please explore carefully, with your Relto book close at hand.

The seed appears to have a mind of its own, so please be aware that we may find sudden, unexpected changes in its behavior!

Enjoy with caution!

* * * *

Upon returning here shortly after writing the above paragraphs, it appears that the seed behavior has shifted, for I can now return here without using my Relto linking book. Very mysterious!

* * * *

I've also got the cannon working well enough that I've loaded some speeches and such. Had to "borrow" parts from a Nexus in order to do so. Sure wish I knew where Laxman stashed all his spare parts for D'ni tech.

Ainia

